

Butler, Jennie C

From: Joyous [iamjoyous@mediaone.net]
Sent: Monday, December 27, 1999 11:40 PM
To: fdadockets@oc.fda.gov
Subject: Sprouts

I realize the "comment" time has expired, but I just learned that the FDA is considering a guideline to treat sprouts with bleach.

I strongly object to this, for several reasons:

- I am very sensitive to chemicals, and bleach is one that I have had to remove from my life.
- I do not believe the problem with bacteria is great enough to cause such drastic measures.
- What are they going to do with all the refuse bleach? Dump it in the ocean to kill the fish? It's just more chemicals for the environment to handle.

Please, do consider these late remarks...

Sincerely, Joy C. Lesperance

99D 4488
99D 4489

EMC3